
[Authors]

Andrea Bellini, Ph.D. in Sociology, is research fellow at the Department of Political and Social Sciences (DSPS) of the University of Florence. His main research fields are sociology of work, industrial relations, middle classes and professions. He is author of a book entitled Il puzzle dei ceti medi, published in 2014 by Firenze University Press.

Chiara Bertone, Ph.D., is Associate Professor in Sociology of Culture at the University of Eastern Piedmont, Italy. Her main interests lie in gender, sexuality and family change. She has worked on sexual citizenship, non-heterosexual experiences and family relations, critical approaches to heterosexuality and masculinity. She is currently working on the medicalisation of male sexuality in Italy. She is author of the volumes Whose Needs? Women's Organisations' Claims on Child Care in Italy and Denmark (2002); Le omosessualità (2009); and co-editor of Queering families of origin (2014).

Maria Luisa Bianco is Professor of Sociology at the University of Piemonte Orientale. She is currently Vice-Director of the Department of Social Research and President of the Corso di Laurea Magistrale in Società e Sviluppo Locale. Her research deals with the inequalities: at work and in the professions, in the educational process, and in the relationships between the genders. Among her publications: La sindrome di Archimede (1982, con A. Luciano), Tecnologia senza innovazione: l'informatica negli enti locali (1989); Classi e reti sociali: Risorse e strategie degli attori nella riproduzione delle disuguaglianze (1996); Donne al lavoro. Cinque itinerari fra le disuguaglianze di genere (1997); L'Italia delle disuguaglianze (2001, ed. by); Razionalità locali. Sociologia dei giovani adulti torinesi (2007, with F. Ceravolo).

Filippo Buccarelli is PhD in Sociology and since 2001 adjunct professor of Sociology, Sociology of Continuing Vocational Training and Sociology of Deviance at the School of Political Science and the School of Humanistic and Training Studies, University of Florence. Member of the Editorial Board of the CAMBIO-Review on Social Transformations, he has been research coordinator of the Social Observatories of the Provinces of Prato and Pistoia and he is currently Scientific Director of PoieinLab-Social Research.

Brunella Casalini is Associate Professor of Political Philosophy at the University of Florence, where she teaches Political Philosophy and Theories of Justice and Social Intervention (Scuola di Scienze Politiche "Cesare Alfieri"). She works on issues related to gender, sexuality and disability. Her publications include: Femminismo e neoliberalismo (2015, with L. Cini), in «Jura Gentium»; Giustizia, uguaglianza e differenza (2012); Globalizzazione e politica del lavoro riproduttivo (2011, in A. Palumbo e V. Segreto, eds); Rappresentazioni della femminilità, postfemminismo e sessismo (2011), in «Iride».

Stefanie Ernst completed her undergraduate degree in sociology, history and social anthropology at the University of Münster. She has taught sociology at the universities of Dortmund, Münster, Osnabrück, Graz, Copenhagen and Bloomington. Currently professor of sociology at the Institute of Sociology at the University of Münster, she teaches at undergraduate and postgraduate levels. Her research interests include: sociology of work, social theory, gender studies, diversity studies. Last published book: Soziologie. Konstanz: UVK Verlagsgesellschaft (2011, with H. Korte). She is currently working on the topic Thinking in figurations: a knowledge sociological study about the next generation of Norbert Elias scholars.

Valeria Gherardini Psychologist and Mediator, she is lecturer and coordinator of the Family Mediation area for the Master in Mediation, University of Padua and University of Brescia. President of Pragmata Politika, a company dealing with mediation in every field, she is a trainer working with national and International organizations and an Expert of the Eu Commission - EACEA Executive Agency.

Roberto Maria Grippo has been Executive of the External Penal Execution Office of Florence, Prato, Pistoia and Arezzo. Honorary Judge at the Juvenile Court, he has been adjunct professor of Sociology of Deviance and Penalty Execution at the School of Political Science, University of Florence. He is currently Vice President of the Disciplinary Council of Tuscany Social Workers Order.

Marie-Thérèse Letablier is a sociologist, research director of the French National Center for Scientific Research (CNRS) and a senior research fellow in the Paris Centre d'Economie de la Sorbonne (CES). She is also associated researcher at the Institut National d'Études Démographiques (INED), and member of the Conseil Supérieur d'Égalité Professionnelle. Her sociological works concern work, family and gender issues, and focuses on family/ social policies and reforms, reconciliation policies and practices between work and family life. Her research is inclined to a strong comparative dimension, and recently it focuses on single-parent families as well as policies to support parenting implemented by companies. She has participated in various research networks funded by the European Commission on family policies, admission policies for young children and reconciling work and family life. Her main publications include books, articles and book chapters, including: Families and Family Policies in Europe (with L. Hantrais, 1996); Familles et travail: contraintes et arbitrages (2001, with J. Fagnani); Social Policies. Epistemological and Methodological Issues in Cross-National Comparison (2005, with J-C. Barbier); Inégalités entre femmes et hommes: les facteurs de précarité (2005, with F. Milewski et al.).

Fausto Miguélez, former Professor of Sociology at the Autonomous University of Barcelona, was the director of the Centre d'Estudis Sociològics sobre la Vida Quotidiana i el Treball (QUIT). Recently named Professor Emeritus in the same University, is currently involved in researches on social structure, industrial relations, labour market policies and the relationship between time, work and everyday life. Among his last books: Nuevas organizaciones del tiempo de trabajo. Tiempo de trabajo: balance de actuaciones en la Unión Europea (2006); Trabajar en prisión (2007).

Elena Spina is assistant professor at Università Politecnica delle Marche, Italy. Her main area of interest is the sociology of professions, in particular social and health professional groups. Recent publications: „Self-help/ mutual aid as active citizenship associations: a case study of the chronically ill in Italy (with G. Giarelli, 2014) in «Social Science & Medicine»; An evaluation of the professional status of Italian Midwives (2013), in «Evidence Based Midwifery».

Angela Tiano Ph.D. student at the Doctoral School of Social Sciences of the Department of Philosophy, Sociology, Education and Applied Psychology (FISPPA) of the University of Padova. She is currently working at a project on gay and lesbian parents in Italy.

Luca Trappolin Assistant Professor of Sociology at the Department of Philosophy, Sociology, Education and Applied Psychology (FISPPA) of the University of Padova, where he teaches Sociology of Differences. His main fields of research are the transformation of gender identities, the social construction of homosexuality and homophobia.

Giovanna Vicarelli is full professor of Economic Sociology at Università Politecnica delle Marche, Italy, and chief director of the Centre for Research and Services on Social-Health Integration. Her fields of study are professionalism and welfare policies, with particular focus on social and health systems. Recent publications: Cura e salute. Prospettive sociologiche (2013, a cura di); Gli eredi di Esculapio. Medici e politiche sanitarie nell'Italia unita (2010).